LIKE THE LEAVES OF A TREE

As freshman we all took our places on this tree like buds placed into position. Warmth and attention from the people around permitted us to explore life and to allow the buds to blossom. From the blossoming bud we expanded our horizons ... spring was over. Summer at last!

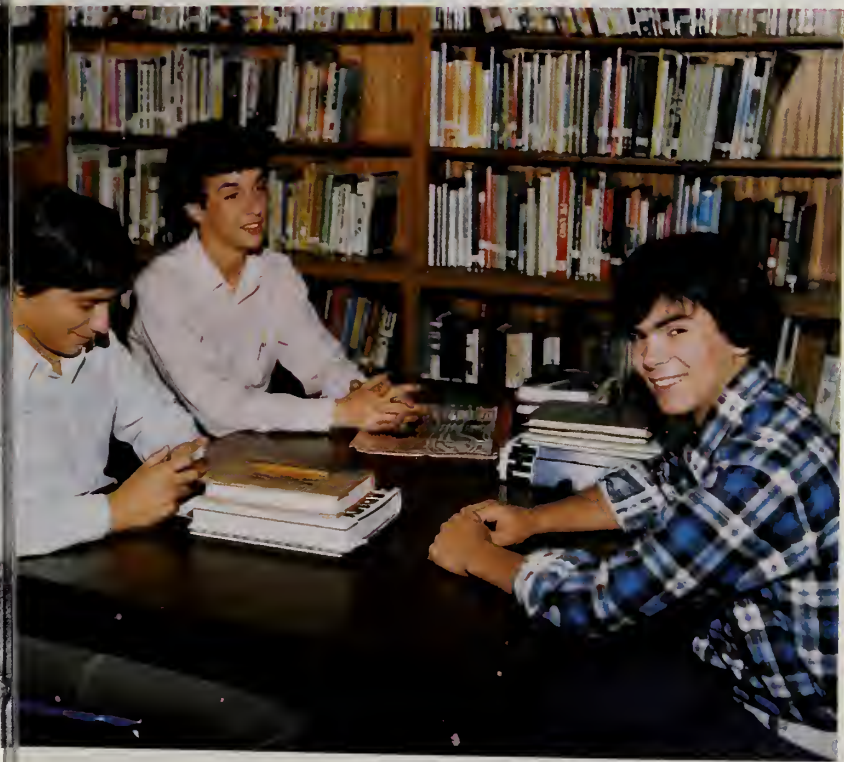

We came back to school in our fall. Our tree colors were showing; many brilliant, all beautiful. Together we made up that tree and drew attention to ourselves.

Our seasons had taught us that if we were going to survive, we would have to do it as one.

For some reason, Mother Nature began to play with our comfort;
we could feel ourselves being jarred from the tree. We all drew in a breath of hesitation. Were we ready to set out for that new horizon we had been planning for so long?

One day the news arrived that room had to be made on our tree; we would have to leave. One by one we fell softly to the ground. Tears were shed; unsure, we comforted one another and made promises.

The wind blew once and scattered we became ... individual leaves headed for different directions.

Winter has come and there are no leaves on our tree, but for all of us the memories of blossoming buds linger.

As one passes our tree every cold day of winter, each shall remember us and our fight for survival. For our loves, desires, and thoughts are implanted
forever.

The History

In the beginning . . .

Two Towns Came Together

It began in 1948 when the legislature passed a law which permitted small towns without high schools to organize themselves into regional school districts. Several towns began to work under this new legislation and the time had come for Freetown and Lakeville to give it some serious thought. Lakeville students had been attending Middleboro High School and Freetown students had been attending either New Bedford, Fall River, or Dighton High School. The arrangements had been ideal, but the towns were fast growing and sooner or later, other alternatives had to be found.

Mr. George Austin organized the first regional meeting in this area and this is the most important reason we have the school system we have today. Carver, Lakeville, Rochester, Mattapoisett, Berkley, Freetown, and Dighton all attended that first meeting. Deliberations went on for several years and the group that seemed to emerge was that of Carver, Lakeville, Rochester, Freetown, and Berkley. After many more meetings, Carver began to pull away from the group because of the distance involved in any possible location of the school.

The early years at Apponequet.

The four towns remaining drew up preliminary agreements and things seemed to be running smoothly. The agreements were put to vote in each of the four towns which was common practice at the time. Lakeville and Freetown supported the issue very strongly, but there seemed to be problems with Rochester and Berkley. The vote in Rochester was very, very close, but for unknown reasons, Rochester pulled out of the group and later joined Marion and Mattapoisett to form the Old Rochester District. Berkley was problem in itself. They voted the issue down the first time but asked for another chance. The Regional Committee agreed to allow Berkley to poll the issue again, but there were several conditions on the agreement. The Committee was going to draw up two contracts, one including Lakeville, Freetown, and Berkley, and the other including only Freetown and Lakeville. They would vote on the first contract and if Berkley again voted it down, they would vote on the second. Berkley voted the issue down, and thus, Apponequet for the towns of Lakeville and Freetown.

Polarion Salutes . . .

We, the Class of 1980, would like to give a special thanks to someone who is a vital part of the life of our school. Because one of the avowed purposes of education is to close the distance between administration, faculty, and students, this person has done so much to bridge that gap. It is with much respect that we salute Mrs. Bea Wilcoxon, secretary.

The Apponequet Administration

Throughout our four years at Apponequet there has been one man standing right beside us. When we were freshmen, he was the quiet vice-principal who appeared at every school function. Then sophomore year he became our principal taking on more responsibility yet still having time to listen. As our senior year was on its way to success, another shift in command took place when he became the Acting Superintendent of Schools. Still, he was always there. He went with us to our football and softball games, to our proms and banquets. He was there the first day of school through the last. He was there to lend a helping hand even though conflicts might have arisen. He always tried to see both sides of an issue forgetting personalities and opinions. He became an example of hard work and dedication not only to us but to all. As we leave the halls of Apponequet, we are sorry that all students everywhere have not had the chance to meet such a man as Joseph Simas.

In the small area of Massachusetts that makes up East Freetown, Lakeville, and Assonet, there have always been many active and devoted citizens eager to better the education of its youth. A handful of these people make up the Freetown-Lakeville Regional School Committee. We realize that we are a lucky group of students to have a school committee that can understand the daily problems of school life and be concerned with student goals, opinions, and capabilities. Without these open-minded individuals, our school would not have many assets: academic programs, athletics, field trips, and special school activities. If it were not for the enthusiasm and approval of the School Committee, our days would be dull and routine and not filled with variety and purpose. Too many times this Committee has been denied its "moment of glory". For this reason the Class of 1980 would like to extend its thanks to all of these people for contributing so much to our well-being.

Yearbook Staff

Each year the staff has tried to provide this space with enlightening news on how the work was accomplished with diligence and conscientiousness. They would proceed to say how the closeness and laughter they shared during this time made deadlines easier to bear and work more enjoyable. May the 1980 Yearbook staff be the first to crush you images of the work being glamorous and exciting; sorry to disappoint you folks, but the work became outright unbearable at times. Our original crew of about twenty dropped to about six or seven and work piled higher than we ever imagined possible; deadlines became a standing joke. Mr. Capone and Mrs. Reis were in a constant frenzy over the ad section and the financial end; many seniors were too busy to put their time into the book, so a few staff members were left with the bulk of the material. It was with the special help and determination of Caroline Perrone, Cindy Furtado, Anita Abbott, and Tina Gleason that the stacks of work were reduced. The possibility of wrapping the book up became more a reality than a hopeless case; another stab at perseverance seemed warranted. I'm sure that in the course of the past few months the staff and Mr. Capone questioned their sanity — the degree of involvement and its importance was also questionable in the minds of the staff. There is only one word of advice we, the staff of the 1980 Polaron Yearbook, have for those interested students of the Yearbook: Don't join unless you plan on working diligently — too many will suffer from your mistakes. "United we stand, divided we fall!"

Question: What was the atmosphere like during those first four years?

Answer: It was good. Probably the hardest decision we made when the school first opened was to bring back the Seniors. The seniors from Freetown came back fairly happily as they were scattered all over, but the Lakeville seniors had always been made very welcome at Middleboro High School and it was harder for them to leave, but they were good about it. The enthusiasm for a new school was great.

Question: Where there problems that first year?

Answer: Yes, there were a few. When we brought our students back from the various high schools they were attending to Apponequet, there were some curriculum problems. First of all, the curricula in the other schools were different and courses had different names at each school. This posed some scheduling problems, but we survived.

Question: How was the present location of the school decided on?

Answer: When it came time to decide on a location for a school, there was a choice of several possible places. One was what is now known as the Ted Williams Camp, which was then owned by the Boston Council of Boy Scouts. They were willing to sell the 55 acres of land, but the price of $55,000 seemed a little steep. We looked at a piece of land on Highland Road but received no encouragement and soon gave that up. Freetown had one or two suggestions but none proved feasible and we were still fishing when Mr. and Mrs. Paul Leonald offered 26 acres of land on which to build the school. Gratefully, we accepted the offer and surveyed the land. Another small peice of land adjacnt to the 26 acres was given to us by Mr. Ronald Mello and with these two generous gifts we began to build our school. We later acquired some more land, from a Freetown family.

"... It was the staff that made it go, the enthusiasm in the school in those early years was absolutely fantastic. I have never seen anything like it since, and I don't know as we ever will. I guess it would take a brand new enterprise like that to see the kind of school spirit that we had."

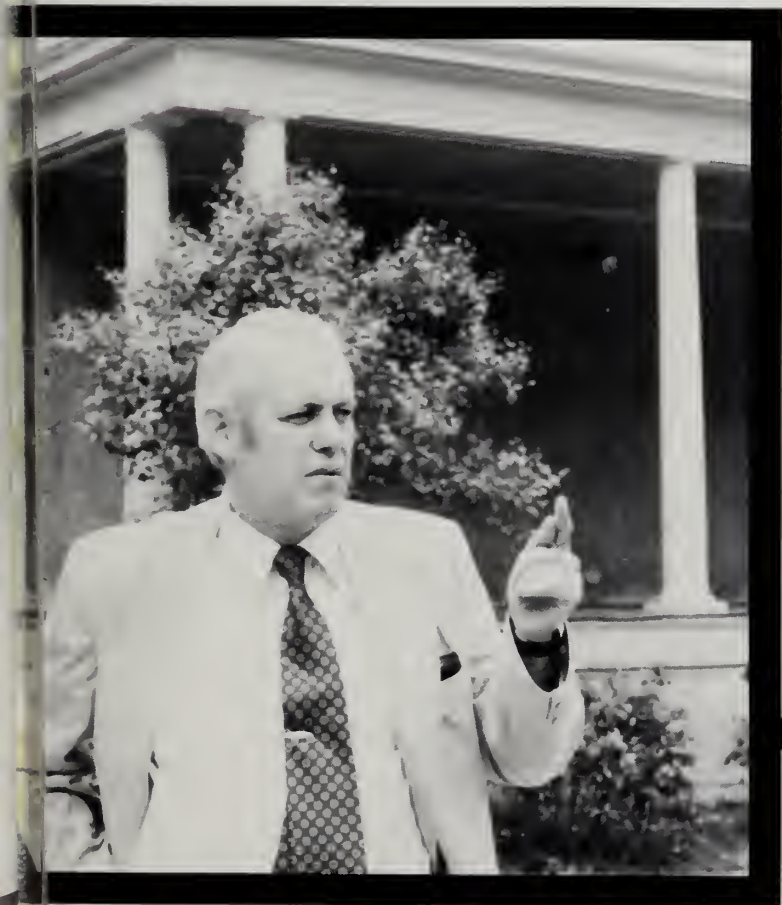

When planning the 1980 anniversary edition of the Polarian, the editorial staff scheduled an interview with former principal of Apponequet High School, John Usher. Now superintendent of schools in the Dover-Sherbourne School District of Massachusetts, Mr. Usher was able to give us a first hand account of the lifestyle at Apponequet during those first crucial years. "My administration was beautiful for a lot of reasons: first of all we had a new school. It was a year old. And we had to consolidate curriculum . . . We had to put down in black and white what we were going to do 7 through 12 in English and math and science and social studies, . . . so my job was really to put Apponequet on the map." With all the academic planning that had to be accomplished early on, one would have thought that athletic activities would have gotten set aside for awhile; on the contrary, both the communities of Lakeville and Freetown were bound and determined to have a football team.

Because of the way the school was built, the contract was to seed the field and then stay off it for a year. This didn't satisfy the community, they just had to have this football team. So Dick Bissonnette was hired as the football coach. The first practice brought everyone out to watch; and it was held in the middle of John Leonard's turnip field on Freetown Street. Mr. Usher, who viewed the practice, recalls:

"I can still see Dick Bissonnette teaching kids how to line up on a football field, the kids didn't even know what a 3 pt. stance was . . . we had maybe 30 kids out there, I don't there were 3 of them who had even seen a football. But talk about spirit, if you told the kids to, they'd run through a brick wall."

These kids may not have known in which order to run, but they would have done anything asked of them. Over the years since those precious beginnings, Apponequet has retained its closeness and overpowering school spirit. It became this way by bringing together of two communities with a school as the point of concentration. In Mr. Usher's feeling, "This has made people more sensitive to one another and Apponequet what it is today."

JUNIORS

Well, I'm sure if you asked any Junior what the word Junior meant, he would probably say that it means completing the first two years of High School successfully.

A member of the Junior class plays an important role in our school. Whether he has realized it or not, between his Sophomore and Junior years he has matured. He faces problems with an attitude of etiquette. The problems are no longer major ones and can be dealt with accordingly. He has more time for himself and takes advantage of the time while meeting more people. He also begins to open up to situations around him, whether they be his concern or not. Surely a Junior thinks of himself as an upper classman, but he also thinks of himself as one who has yet to reach the goal of Seniority.

SOPHOMORES

After the first year of High School, a big heavy load seems to come off the shoulders of Sophomores. All the tension seems to have ceased or at least some has.

A Sophomore realizes that there are many more responsibilities to be taken care of. He probably figures this would be his most crucial year in High School and decides to be tougher with himself. A sophomore comes to realize at this time that there are more important worldly problems. He finds he must cram for tests, decide what he is going to do with his life after High School, and learn the responsibilities of being an upper classman.

At this stage of High School, he probably doesn't realize just what being an upper classmen is really like. I'm sure, though, that in time he will realize just what it is that goes into becoming a Junior.

Freshmen

A newcomer to the world of High School, a freshman enters the world of fear and hope. He fears that he will not adapt to situations at the High School - situations like crowded halls, classrooms and new people. A freshmen always wants to belong. It doesn't have to be anything in particular, just the group. He looks at everything as a problem that has to be figured out precisely. Instead of looking at his problems and figuring ways out, he just makes them worst.

Also, he would like to have the upperclassmen think he is not a freshmen, but merely a person trying to make acquaintances. What he does not realize is that once you are a freshman you do belong.

I'd like to leave an echo
Whispering softly down the ways.
Of happy times and laughing times
And bright and sunny days.

Cin's going to miss being a Laker fan when she leaves, and all the good times with her friends, but it won't be when she got her finger smashed in the Bronco. (No wonder one of her pet peeves is speed bumps!) In between going to concerts, eating Italian food and spending $, she hopes to own a black Z-28.

Bob will attend college to obtain his degree in Business Administration even though his favorite subject/class is history — did Mr. Goodfellow have anything to do with your decision in Administration? While getting into rock music, we're sure that Bob thinks of England and May 16, 1980.

"Nature forms us for ourselves, not for others; to be; not to seem."

Perhaps some day while you're in N.H. or Calif., you'll hear a girl talking about Tull, Zepplin, Rolling Stones, pizza, popcorn, May 14, or Mr. Berry — you'll have to realize it's Tami reminiscing about old times. She won't be talking about the time when she fell off the ballance beam in the gym, or how she hates people who think they're better than others . . . some people just can't mind their own business!

Norma Lee Mason
174 Slab Bridge Road
Assonet

"We do not remember days, we remember moments."

If, by chance, one day while you're roller skating or at the movies, you hear a loud "See you later." it'll be Norma. My bet is that she'll be with Mike, Diane, Brenda or Cathy. If you think you're better than other people, stay out of Norma's way; but if you like Styx, Cheap Trick or Queen you'll get along fine. Norma will always remember Mrs. Reis and April 19, 1979. And before leaving good ole Apponequet, she wants to wish every senior all the luck in the world. Thanks!

Practice, Practice, Practice is the advise of Coach Homen for the new Apponequet Golf Team. Although strong perserverance is evident in the team, much work is needed. The past season held Dartmouth and Norton as the toughest opponents. But with the help of players Paul Aitken, Scott Holmes, and Bob Barlow, the team was victorious, winning the Mayflower League Championship.

The Track team had a memorable 14-2 season. This record is among Apponequet's all-time best. The team faced its toughest opponent, Norton, and lost proudly, but performs well under pressure. Key players included David Ponte, Doug Broadbent, and Mark Roberts. Coach Dias says that year-round training is essential to a good performance and the success of a 1980-81 team.

Equivalents of Bjorn Borg and Ilie Nastase we have, but where are our Tracy Austins and Chrissy Evert's? Hopefully next season we'll have girls participating in this sport; however, our young men, Steve Colucci, Mike Brown, and Mike Roberts took off early in the season displaying athletic skill and sportsmanship which qualified their team for the State Tournament. Along their way to the State Tournament, the team found New Bedford High to be their toughest opponent. Coach Robidoux found that his team kept their coordination "sharp" due to participation in other sports. Our team proved to be number 1 and will do so again in the new season when players Damian Correia, Kevin Brown, Mike Brown, Steve Colucci, and Mike Roberts return. Remember one thing men: "Behind every great man there lies a woman!" So gals, let's get out and support these guys with a good back hand!

The 1979 Cross-Country team finished its season last fall with a record that matched its previous year's of 9-1. Although they did not set any records as a team, they certainly are worthy of praise as many of the members have been winning in the Apponequet tradition for four years.

Standouts for the team were co-captains Doug Broadbent and Mark Roberts. Both seniors, they established a superb one-two punch for the Lakers throughout the last two years. Doug's running ability has been well known for a long time, and Mark has become one of the top high school runners in the area. Mark's highest achievement of the year came at the All-League Meet where he placed fourth in field of 65 top Mayflower League Runners. Doug's highlight was his record time on Avon's course where he broke the established record set by Pat Murphey of Upper Cape.

The seniors were the leaders for this year's squad, and they were led by the captains and Mike Rousseau, Tom Hixon, and Mike Roberts. These runners were the core of the team and their presence will be sorely missed by Coach Dawson and the rest of the squad for next year. Next year's captains will be Paul Westgate and Dennis Almeida. Both experienced runners will be trying to get together a strong team to compete in next year's battles.

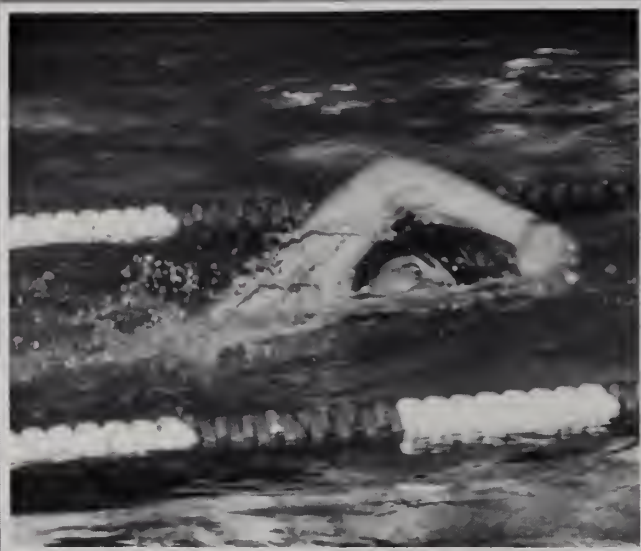

Other strong juniors were Rick Sylvia and the only female member Melissa Lawrence. Rick looked good for awhile until an injury put him out, but he will be looking for bigger and better things next year. Melissa has only been beaten once by another female runner, so far in three years of competition.

Swimming

This past year has been a year of personal growth for the majority of the swim team. They have learned competitiveness, cooperation and friendly rivalry. Together they shared many moments, both happy and sad. They have seen defeat, but more important, they have seen winning. An unforgettable moment was the look on the Durfee coach's face when he realized Durfee had lost its first meet.

Next year the team is certain they will swim faster than ever, breaking all existing school records. By their side, they have their coaches, Lyn Toal and Tim Kannally; and their key players love a victory: David Toal, Melissa Lawrence, and senior Dan Hopkins.

It was a sentimental year for Coach Kuliga because when he first started at Apponequet the senior players were 8th graders — ready to be molded into perfect players. Our whole basketball program was built around these boys as beginners. Coach Kuliga calls it "being in a state of depression and experiencing inner hurt" in seeing these players leave. Looking on the brighter side, the Coach plans on building another good team. He says it might take 5 years, but we can surely say it will be worth it because we know the satisfaction that has been experienced by himself, the players, and the great numbers of fans. Determination is what Coach Kuliga drills into his players to help give them the talent and ability to produce a great team.

Girls Basketball

The Laker Girls showed improvement this year even though the team was young. With key players, R. Costa, J. Winberg, C. Mont, R. Pina and C. Reed, the team was determined to make progress by working together and developing basic skills. The girls faced tough opponents as Norton and W. Bridgewater, of which they soundly defeated W. Bridgewater. Teamwork, determination, and the skill to compensate for each others inabilities shall be the keys to a successful team in the future.

Are our Apponequet Lakers #1? You bet! The past five years proved to be a test on the team's determination. The closest the girls came to their title was in 1977 when they had gone as far as the State Championships but lost the final game. 1979 brought not only a new year of good tidings, but also the title of "State Champs," with much enthusiasm and pride for our Lakers. When asked about key players, Mr. Looney said, "Each girl contributed so much in many different ways." He continued saying that the team's clowns, Vonnie Costa and Rita Bevilacqua, not only kept the entire team loose during the tournament, but also played like tigers on the field. With the competitive attitudes of Joan Allison (whose pitching gained her the state record for the most wins in a single season) and Karen Allerdt, the team was kept in line. Good-natured girls? Why of course! This asset was displayed by the Maquires, Leslie Wood, Jean Winberg, Donna Williams, and Cathy Donegan to name just a few. The toughest opponent of the Lakers was Case High School; however, our Champs pulled off a victorious game (4-3) to win the Southern State Title. The Eastern Mass. State Championship was another victorious game between our Lakers (6) and North Reading (0). The entire season was pulled together and given the final touch when the State Championship was whisked away from Monson. Good going girls and congratulations to all! Cream always come to the top!

GO FOR IT

Respectability and friendship are what our young men relied upon during the 1979 season inspite of the many injuries that hindered their performances. Seniors, John Sharland and Scott Garvey, are two individuals who contributed greatly to the ball club and will be very hard to replace in the upcoming season. When asked who would be promising players in the new season, Mr. Piasecki listed Mark Bullock, Jim Audet, Steve Seablom, Joe O'Brien, Brian Gleason, Mike Bouley, and Bobby Smith. For the young men and their coaches, the "Turkey Day" Game and the win over West Bridgewater will always be memorable. An event that would like to be forgotten is the game against Manchester where two touchdowns were called back. "Our toughest opponents were Middleboro and Nantucket, But we'll cream them next year," said Coach Piasecki.

A title this year? Well, not exactly, but one cannot say that the 1979 baseball season was a waste! By no means was this the case; excellence was displayed in a variety of ways... sportsmanship being foremost. The boys' perseverance was outstanding and the coaches' determination for well-played games, an epitome of good faith and strong belief, was inspiring.

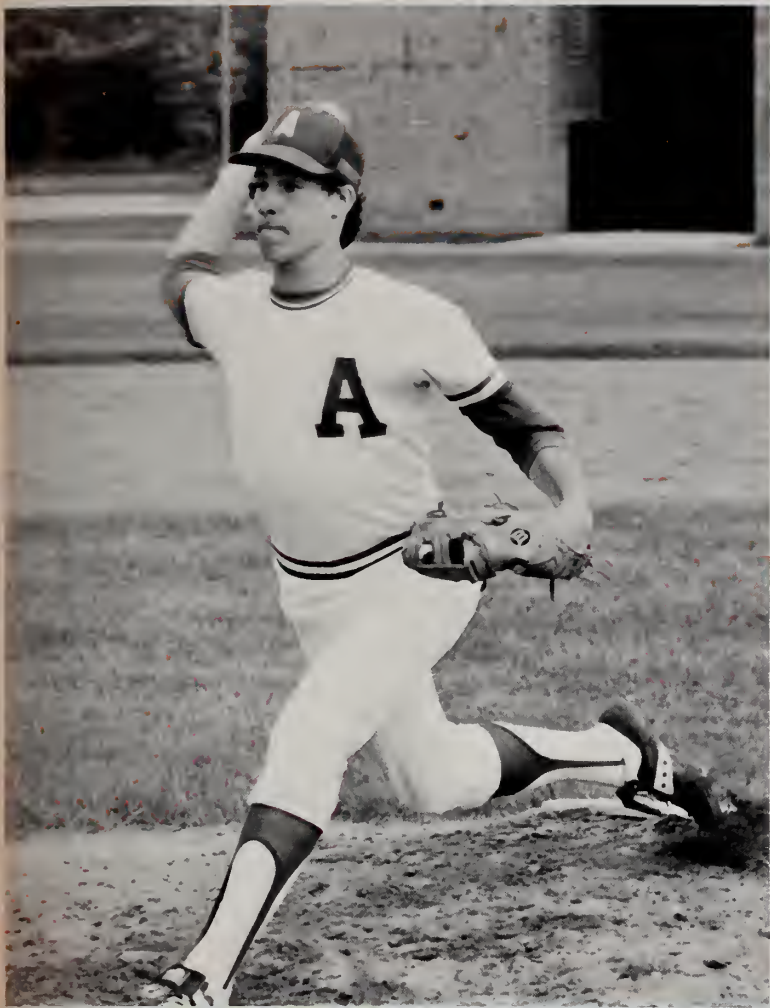

Stan Mathews (senior) had a most memorable year on the mound; he proved himself as a powerful starter as well as a savior of difficult games. Stan's season was given a "seal of approval" when he was voted Outstanding Player by all the league coaches. Others that displayed an excellence in their game were Mike Ouimet, who swung a very consistent bat, and Ken Engstrom who came in during the second half of the year to pitch some big wins.

A memorable moment for the Lakers was their victory against Norton their most competitive opponent. Important is the team's undefeated League competition of 16 and 0! I'm sure the team will all agree, that the entire season was quite enriching. Guys, we'll annihilate Norton next season. Show them no mercy!

Tri-Captains Cheryl, Anita, Jean

There were disappointments for the field hockey team this year, but the spirit and the teamwork continued pushing them onward. With only three seniors to look at for experience, it proved quite an interesting season. Sophomores playing varsity for the first time learned game skills well. A fine performance by freshman, Sandy Graca as goalie, helped to keep the girls on their toes. Coach Burrows with her first season here behind her, can look forward to a freshly spirited team with positive attitudes.
